A therapeutically instructive case

In our practice we saw a 35 year-old patient who had been suffering for as much as ten years from a severe head tremor. Initially the tremor caused brief attacks just during the day, but later on they also occurred at night, with major tensions in the shoulder and neck region. Repeated neurological examinations had not produced any findings and therefore no therapeutic treatment had been undertaken.

However the patient was recommended to see a psychiatrist but nothing was found 'on this track' either. Analysis and psychotherapy treatment were both equally unsuccessful.

In our own practice, taking the case history revealed an injury to the head about ten years ago, but „nothing serious, just mild concussion“. The darkfield microscopy images showed a considerable number of definite macrosymptotes and multiform crystals and pseudo-crystals in the serum. The erythrocytes appeared slightly enlarged.

These signs showed the way for the therapy. First of all the patient was given a mixed injection of NOT 6X, Quent 5X, Traumeel and Zinkum cyananum at the acupuncture 3 E15 sites on both sides and along the neck muscles, the remainder as a depot in the right and left armpits. Apart from a kidney, liver and lymph remedy as oral medication, the patient was prescribed MAPURIT, Horviten and VITAMIN B COMPLEX. In addition he received the single homeopathic remedy Hyoscyamus C200 and for local use Traumeel ointment.

At the second appointment in our practice (two weeks later) the patient reported that the tremor had not occurred for almost a full week after the infection treatment. The tension had also improved. Then there had been a mild recurrence of the tremor. Overall however he was much better.

The patient then received a mixed injection with NOT 5X, QUENT 5X, GINKGO, Neuro-Injeel and Traumeel at the above mentioned sites. MUCEDO 4X was administered for oral use (1 capsule twice daily) and Agaricus C200 (one dose).

On the third visit to our practice the patient declared that he had been completely free of symptoms since soon after his second visit. Therefore the patient refused a planned third injection. He was however advised to take medication, in the form of MUCEDO 4X (orally, 1 capsule daily) and to carry on taking the prescribed vitamins and minerals for the time being, also to have massage to loosen up the shoulder and neck musculature, with additional embrocations of SANCOM 5X drops.

The patient has now been completely free of symptoms for two years.
